PRINCIPAL'S COMMENT

Third quarter blues at school.

Third quarter blues are real, and it's hard to underrate second, or even third, quarter blues. Third quarter is the one that really tests the grit it takes to get through a school year. It's the stretch where routines can start to feel heavy, motivation can dip, and the distractions and challenges to the energy on the dance floor, it was a great night, and it's great to see our students having a great time at school and beyond the school gates.

Our amazing thanks to the Surf Club for their generous hospitality and for making it such a great venue available to us. It was the perfect setting for a night that brought our community together and gave it a fitting, Victorian era feel. Special thanks to our Year 13 students who organised the event and to Mr. Wilson in particular.Review and a

Year 13 students, this is a time for you to use your strengths and hard wiseties and self-discipline to keep your focus on your goals and opportunities. Set your sights, take ownership of your learning, and keep moving forward. Small, consistent efforts now will pay off in ways you can't yet see. Stay curious, stay connected, and remember that you don't have to do everything perfectly to make real progress.

Our school community is proud to celebrate our students' achievements, and many of these make possible through the dedication and commitment of our staff. Congratulations to our Year 13 students who have received offers of tertiary study, apprentices, and support to help them search for and secure jobs. Congratulations also to students who Crusaders Cup Rugby Tournament, Kapa Haka Competition and Kapa Haka Tournament. I have crossed at times that some students have commented on how much they enjoy their time at school, and that is another thing to be proud of. Thank you to our staff who have worked hard to make this happen. Thank you to our staff.
